By tapping the 'power' of drinking tea together, we will co-create a space for the Asian/Berlin community and anyone else interested and curious in a deeper understanding between cultures, and in East-West encounters. With a traditional tea house in mind to inspire us, we imagine a contemporary creative interpretation catching the "Zeitgeist" of the year 2021:

As much as the Teahouse will be an informal space to just rest and relax, it is – at the same time – a social space to rethink and discuss ideas: In our TEAHOUSE TALKS series we invite personalities from various disciplines and walks of life to talk with us about questions that matter, to them, as individuals, to us, as a larger society: How do migration and globalization affect our lives? How can we create sustainable living space? How can we react to climate change? How does racism concern us? What is a good life?

As a creative space, the TEAHOUSE also offers opportunities to experience hands-on making: In ART WORKSHOPS professionals will teach cultural techniques ranging from font calligraphy and typography to installations, creating consciousness on materials and reusage. For those wanting to know more about tea as such, you can join TEA LEARNING SESSIONS conducted by experts from independent tea labels who will broaden your tea knowledge. The day in our POP UP TEAHOUSE ends with evening PERFORMANCES ranging from music, dance, theatre to film screening.

A day in the POP UP TEAHOUSE

10:30 am – 1:30 pm	ART WORKSHOPS (indoors/outdoors)
2 – 6 pm	TEA TIME Hangouts (outdoors)
3 – 6:30 pm	TEA LEARNING SESSIONS (indoors)
4 – 5:30 pm	TEA TALKS (outdoors)
7 – 9 pm	PERFORMANCES (outdoors)

#art workshop October 9

Indigo Dyeing & Coloring

10:30am – 1:30pm

Indigo is one of the oldest dyeing materials in the world. It is a special plant dye that produces color through fermentation. In the workshop, we use indigo (Indigofera tinctoria) from India, produced with 100% natural material using the same old technology from ancient times. We will learn to dye cloth with the traditional Japanese dyeing technique, Shibori (しぼり/絞り). It is a technique to make patterns on the textiles by tying the thread. The workshop offers a great opportunity to learn about the handcrafts that have been handed down for a long time.

Instructor: Ayumi Yamamoto is a alumnae of the textile and surface design department at Kunsthochschule Weisensee Berlin. While studying, she became interested in how people interact with nature and how to connect with nature and human life. She realized the importance to be conscious of nature. Ayumi founded a studio of indigo dye and plant dyeing where she researches and creates artworks on the colour of plants. In 2015, she learned the traditional Japanese indigo fermentation from Mr Murata at Kosoen in Tokyo. Since 2016 started to give workshops to get people to know about Indigo and handcraft. She is currently preparing to found own label for clothing for human life.

#tea learning session October 9

with Oliver Seifert, Founder of KOS-Tea “Make Tea not War”

Session 1: 3pm - 4:30pm*

Session 2: 5pm - 6:30pm*

A tea learning session focused on oolong teas, more specifically Taiwan oolong, Nantou.

KOS-Tea, created in 2009, started importing teas from Asia in 2013. 5 years later, in 2018, the tea shop and teahouse “Make Tea Not War” was founded. Currently KO-Tea imports green teas from Japan (Gyokuro, Kabusecha, Matcha, Sencha, Bancha, Soba Cah, etc.) and oolong teas from Taiwan (Oolong, HongCha). The teahouse “Make Tea Not War” offers various types of teas from black to green to oolong, with an explicit focus on “not aromatized” teas.

Oliver Seifert's love for tea was born through his travels and work stays in South Korea, Japan and Taiwan. He firmly believes that many disputes could be settled peacefully and prudently over a cup of tea. Thus, his teahouse “Make Tea Not War” is meant to be such a place, where one can find peace and tranquility. Oliver hopes that this slogan can give an impulse to take a step back and perhaps gain a change of perspective on problems or conflicts over a cup of tea. Join his session to learn more!

Tea Learning Sessions at the Pop-Up Teahouse are offered at a non-profit price of 10 Euro for 1.5 hour session.

#evening October 9

OPEN SPACE STAGE - Let's celebrate together!

7:30pm – 9pm

With autumn in the air it is also time to harvest and celebrate the success of the project and all co-creators, contributors and participants coming together. We would really like this last Teahouse to be even more communal and shared.

This time the evening performance program will be an OPEN SPACE STAGE:

Maybe you've got a song to sing, or a story to tell? An artwork to show (video/photo etc.)? Maybe there was a moment in the Teahouse that stayed with you and you would like to share it with the rest of us? Or you have an idea for possible future Teahouses to pitch? Or maybe you've got a secret talent and are looking for an occasion to perform in front of a supporting audience? You are very welcome to share it with us!

There will be a screen, beamer as well as sound equipment available. Ideally, let us know in advance in case you know what you'd need.

Thank you for co-creating this beautiful project with us! Hoping to see all of you there and celebrate together.
